The story of Palestina stretches back millennia, joining it to some of civilization's most significant events. The religious narratives depict Palestina as the holy territory for the Jewish people, while it also holds immense significance for Christians and Muslims. This intertwined religious meaning has, sadly, often been a cause of conflict.

The modern story of Palestina is marked by foreign domination, war, and continuing conflicts over land and self-rule. The control of the West Bank and Gaza Strip by Israel since 1967 has additionally worsened the state of affairs. The construction of Israeli settlements in these regions is a major matter of dispute, leading to increasing tensions and hostilities. The blockade of Gaza, its social predicament, and the frequent outbreaks of hostilities further highlight the complexity of the state of affairs.

Addressing the dispute in Palestina requires a multifaceted method. A permanent resolution must deal with the root reasons of the dispute, including the problem of Palestinian self-determination, the condition of Jerusalem, and the problem of Palestinian refugees.
